

Helen Dixon

Always dreamt of taking your photography professional, but need a confidence boost to make it happen? Well here is a success story that might inspire you. Until 2003 Helen Dixon had never even picked up a camera, and in 2006 she was still working in her job at the Royal Mail. She talks to Ian Farrell about how she made the leap to become one of landscape photography's rising stars